Nurse/Clinical Nursing Coordinator

Dekalb Medical Center - Atlanta, GA

April 2004 to April 2004

to April 2004

I did work on a Orthopedic/Neuro/Womens Health Unit. Our patient population consists of upper and lower extremity fracture repairs, craniotomies, abd hysterectomies and myomectomies. My responsibilities include the following tasks: administer medications by various routes (by mouth, rectal, intervenous, and by tube), perform patient assessments, report abnormal findings to the physician. I was chosen to be a Charge nurse on occasions. The most important role of the Charge nurse is giving support for all the staff (nurses, technicians, and secretaries) in every situation. Balancing the staffing needs of the oncoming shift is one of the biggest challenges the Charge nurse has to face.

to September 1987

I worked on a Medical Surgical unit with a capacity of 44 patients. Our patient population consists of the following: gallbladder, pancreas, colon, kidney, leg bypass surgeries, and amputations. My responsibilities were the following: administer medications, perform patient assessments, report abnormal findings to the physician. Within the last few years of working there, I worked as a charge nurse. Those duties were the following: work closely with the Nursing Supervisor to meet staffing needs for the next shift and fill out patient care assignments for all staff(RNs and Nursing Assistants)for the next shift. Seeing a patient's status improve each day of his or her hospital stay made a difference in my professional career.
