As a CNA, I have learned the importance of patient and environmental safety. I am very proficient in basic skills of patient care such as; obtaining vital signs and patient observation, having basic knowledge in medical terminology, being aware of HIPPA and patient privacy, undergoing excellent communication skills, understanding the benefits of teamwork, CPI and CPR training, but most importantly, being there for a patient in difficult times. Whether it be emotional support, physical support, or simply spending time with a patient to ensure their safety and letting them know they are not in this treatment alone. As a CNA it is my duty to be selfless and kind. It is my duty to always keep learning, benefitting and being the best version of myself for my teammates and my patients.
