Piloting Test of a Mindfulness Meditation Intervention to Reduce Stress in Younger Stroke Patients

<https://jnnn.pl/index.php/neurological-and-neurosurgical/article/view/226/234>

August 2019

Introduction. The population of younger people having strokes is growing. Persons who are younger and have a stroke have specific stressors after a stroke that those over 60 may not experience (e.g., ability to earn an income, provide for a family, returning to work, etc.).

Aim. In order to address some of these age-specific stressors, new and novel approaches to stress mediation are needed. In order to address this gap in the literature this study piloted a mindfulness meditation with younger in hospital stroke survivors.

Description

Many things are happening, the media, especially the rest of the world media, is not giving coverage for the hot topic which is happening in Africa. However, some African countries' media are giving coverage of what's happening in their sister country, Ethiopia. What's happening in the country has a motivational factor to their people and government?

It is now a myth with the young generation of Africa leadership that Africa cannot handle its conflict, it's some problem, it's a challenge. Some countries in Africa are going against the historical moment on and this stumbling block established for centuries by the colonizers. It took a while still it would take some time more to rebuild, to reestablish, and real estate Africa to its natural state.
