Objective

I'm a hard working dedicated BSN nurse. IV vascular has been my area of speciality since 1999. I am also certified PICC nurse. My continuous goal is to educate my team and patients of best practice as a nurse improving outcomes. Changing career paths is an opportunity as a nurse and I am ready to find My new path. My dedication is to always strive to be better nurse through education and career goals. Satisfaction is developed through professional relationships and respect in our nursing practice.

RN career journey

Home Infusion (2016 - 2018)

Practiced in both clinic and homes. Worked independently with infusion that required mixing and infusing followed pharmacy protocols. Assessment of each patient, following protocols and policies with orders. Trained & competent. Computer charting (Epic).

RN (2000 - 2017)

Most of my career was IV therapy in a Providence St Vincent's Hospital Rewarding was knowledge and skills obtained with dedication. I worked independently throughout the hospital. And collaborated with many different teams. Communication was an essential aspect with all the IV nurses. I entered this position as a new nurse working night shift moved to evening shift. Then to a 12 hour day shift Charge Nurse Position. Nursing has been a rewarding career. I plan to continue with my Nursing career which will impact positive patient outcomes and improve practice.

Interests

---

Goals is to become certified again in my nurse career. Specifically for IV therapy and infusion. I hope to complete my certification by 01/2023. I also have an interest in becoming a Nurse Educator. I would be rewarded be a positive influence on new young nurses.
