SUMMARY

I am a graduate-level nursing student who aspires to help others while bringing a compassionate attitude to the task at hand. I am composed and professional, even in fast-paced and high-stress environments. My years of experience as a clinical associate, along with my studies at the graduate level, have increased my ability to follow through with efficiency and completeness. I value high-quality patient-centered care, effective communication with team members, and developing a culture of safety.
